say would not help Mrs. Hall anyway, and that all he wanted to know was, was it safe to call and see Mrs. Hall at New Brunswick, N.J.

Mrs. Simmons advised Operative that she made an effort to keep Mr. Dunham in conversation, but as soon as he learned that someone had been in town to see him, he seemed very much agitated, and was very anxious to get away, and left before Operative arrived.

At this time Mrs. Simmons advised Operative that Mr. Dunham was dressed the same as he was on his first visit, only in addition he was wearing Black Kid Gloves, and she noticed that when he removed one of his gloves he had a large diamond ring on his finger in a tiffany setting. On his last visit Mr. Dunham was wearing a broad winged collar with a Black Bow Tie, and no overcoat.

On the night of October 30, 1922, Mr. Dunham was wearing a light weight dark colored overcoat.

Operative proceeded about town looking over automobiles with New Jersey or New York State License plates, but was unsuccessful in finding any. The reason for doing so, was due to the fact that although it was raining very hard all during the afternoon and at the time Mr. Dunham called, Mrs. Simmons remarked although Mr. Dunham was not wearing an overcoat, or umbrella, neither his hat nor his suit showed any signs of having been rained upon.

At about 8 p.m. Operative was joined by Mrs. Simmons and another young woman by the name of May, at the railroad station.

Operative and the above mentioned two women covered all incoming and outgoing trains until 3 a.m. November 7, 1922, and then discontinued.

Operative observed from the hotel register, that on this night a D.R. Perrin of New York City, and a E.C. Gompert or Gomperi, of New York City, were registered at the Canawacta Hotel.
